Michelle Medlock Adams

Michelle Medlock Adams is an inspirational speaker, award-winning journalist and best-selling author of more than 90 books, earning top honors from the Associated Press, the Society of Professional Journalists and the Hoosier State Press Association. Since graduating with a journalism degree from Indiana University, Michelle has written more than 1,500 articles for newspapers, magazines and websites; acted as a stringer for the Associated Press; written for a worldwide ministry; helped pen a New York Times Bestseller; served as a TV host for TBN's "Joy in Our Town" show; and blogged for Guideposts.

Today, she is President of Platinum Literary Services—a premier full-service literary firm—and she serves as chairman of the board for Serious Writer Inc. and teaches courses for Serious Writer Academy. She is also a weekly columnist for a Midwestern newspaper and serves as assistant acquisitions editor for Little Lamb Books. Whether Michelle is writing or teaching writing, or sharing God's Word at a women's event, she oozes encouragement. She says, "Once a cheerleader, always a cheerleader I guess," she teases. "But seriously, it's my greatest privilege to encourage others as they fulfill their divine callings."

Michelle is married to her high school sweetheart, Jeff, and they have two grown daughters, Abby and Allyson, two sons-in-law, and one grandson with two more grandbabies on the way, as well as a miniature dachshund, a rescue Shepherd/Collie mix, and two cats. When not writing or teaching, Michelle enjoys bass fishing and cheering on the Indiana University Basketball team and the Chicago Cubbies.

You can read more about her and sign up for her blog: "Deadlines, Fishing Lines, & Laugh Lines" on her website: www.michellemedlockadams.com online.
